DATING

Our dating service is a fully managed IVR based dating application. Users are asked to record their own voicemail message and the service will then ask them to give a few key details such as the type of person they are looking for, location etc.

Once the user's message box has been vetted their message will be posted on to the service, the user has the option of being sent a text message to their mobile phone each time someone matching their criteria rings in & leaves them a voicemail message.

Callers into this service are able to search by area as we have broken the UK down in to several numbered areas making it easy for each caller to locate a date in a specific area.

Square 1 will also provide details of all the updated message boxes across the entire service so that you can keep your advertising up to date, these will include:- profiles, areas, sex, age, box number etc

This service is available at 60ppm £1pm and £1.50pm
